Efforts of Major Davis. Judge Henderson pointed out that it was largely through the efforts of Major B. F. Davis that A. and M. College was located near Bryan, and he praised his ingenious work in providing for the future maintenance of the institution. "Bryan had an enterprising and provident citizenship fifty years ago, which should be an everlasting inspiration to its present progressive citizenship," he stated.

He told of Bryan's influence on the 20,000 ex-students of A. and M. College who are now scattered to all sections of Texas, and declared that A. and M. College is the "best school of applied sciences in the entire United States."

"The remnants of the old village have been brushed away, and now you have one of the most modern little cities in the nation. Bryan is still located in the same old place but it is not the same town," he stated.

Leave Doctrine to Preachers. He congratulated the brotherhood on its enthusiasm and growth, and said it was a healthy sign of the good work of the church. He said he was willing to leave "discussions of doctrine to the preachers who have given the subject the study of a lifetime." It is the concern of the members to try to emulate the life of Christ in their every day activities, he said.

College Given by Judge Henderson

Efforts of Major Davis. Judge Henderson pointed out that it was largely through the efforts of Major B. F. Davis that A. and M. College was located near Bryan, and he praised his ingenious work in providing for the future maintenance of the institution. EUGENE SMITH SAYS CON-TRACTOR SHOULD DO MORE ADVERTISING.

AUSTIN, Oct. 20.—Unverified reports that James E. Ferguson will be called before House investigation committee were rife here today. Ferguson's name had been mentioned repeatedly in testimony. In May 1925 J. D. Windler of Bellville, road contractor, told him that James E. Ferguson had offered to get highway maintenance contracts for Winder for 10 per cent of contract price, Leo Ehlinger, former State Highway Maintenance Engineer, today told House investigating committee, John Ralston, Houston manufacturer of expansion joints, used to prevent concrete pavement from cracking, provoked much merriment when he told of bringing $100 to Austin to endeavor to get his product approved, and Eugene Smith, then secretary of Highway Commission, suggested that he ought to do about $5,000 worth of advertising.

East Texas Chamber of Commerce Board May Hold A Meeting In Bryan Soon, Is Stated At C. of C.

Secretary Eberstadt read a letter from President R. M. Kelly, Manger W. M. Blanton, of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce, acknowledging the invitation from the Bryan Chamber of Commerce asking that their board hold a meeting here soon. They stated that the matter would be placed before their board. This information was brought out at Tuesday's Chamber of Commerce meeting.

A letter was read from the Grimes County Chamber of Commerce, also a communication from the agricultural committee of the same organization. The matter was discussed by J. Webb Howell, chairman of the agricultural committee; L. L. McInnis, W. H. Cole, J. N. Dulaney, Ike Ashburn, and Tyler Haswell. Motion carried that matter be referred to the three boards of Bryan.

TOM PADGITT, PIONEER TEXAN AND FORMER BRYAN CITIZEN, DIES AT HIS HOME IN WACO

WACO, Oct. 20.—Tom Padgitt, president of the Tom Padgitt Company here, one of the largest saddlery and harness establishments in Texas, died at his home here early Tuesday morning. Mr. Padgitt was 79 years old. He had been in ill health for some time and he came home little more than two weeks ago from Boerne, where he spent the summer. Mr. Padgitt had lived in Texas the last seventy-two years, fifty-four of that time in Waco.

The funeral will take place Wednesday morning at 10:30 from the family residence, with Dr. J. M. Dawson, pastor of the First Baptist church here, officiating. The pall-bearers will be fourteen employees of the Tom Padgitt Company, all of whom have been with the firm for at least twenty years, and one of them, G. C. Slade, has been an employee of Mr. Padgitt for more than fifty years.

Mr. Padgitt was born on Dec. 13, 1846, in the mountains of Tennessee, twelve miles from Gallatin, Sumner county, on the Cumberland River. At the age of 7 years Mr. Padgitt's parents decided to come to Texas, and in July, 1854, the family loaded the household goods on a flatboat and came to Nashville. It was in that city that the Padgitt family had their first glimpse of a steamboat. (Continued on Page 4)

BOZOS COUNTY Boys' and Girls' Club Department

Club News and Farm News by County Agent C. L. Beason

To Raise Hogs.

It is reported that the Temple Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring the slogan "A barrel of pork on every Bell county farm." With such public spirited bankers as Colonel P. L. Downs co-operating with the movement, it is quite likely that the program will be put over in fine shape. Because of their interest in the betterment of agriculture, such bankers as Nathan Adams, P. L. Downs, J. E. Owens, Judge J. W. Fitzgerald, and others are building for themselves a monument that will be outstanding in the years to come.

Clubs to Complete.

All clubs competing for the Howell Lumber Company prizes will bear in mind that for the contest ending Oct. 31, it will be necessary to report attendance on only one meeting instead of two meetings, as heretofore. Club leaders should see to it that a full attendance of their members is had at this meeting. Any club may win. Which will it be? Shillock and Smetana were the winners in the last contest.

Plant Fall Grain.

This is fine weather for sowing fall grain and for preparation of fall and winter gardens. Neither should be neglected.

Cotton and Illiteracy.

It is said that illiteracy abounds in the cotton states. Possibly by reducing the acreage in cotton we might also help to reduce illiteracy.

Much Terracing This Fall.

From the calls being made on the County Agent, it would appear that an unusual amount of terracing will be done this fall and winter. Help organize this work so as to distribute the service to the most farmers possible. A dozen, or more, farmers attending a demonstration can learn to use the farm level just as well as one farmer can learn.

About Diversification.

Nobody questions the wisdom of every farmer providing for at least one "money" crop, but it has been observed that the farmer who diversified to the extent that his barns are full of feed stuff, the smoke house amply supplied with home-raised meat and lard, and the pantry filled with a generous supply of canned foods, is the farmer least affected by such crises as we are now passing through. Let us seek to help bring about this independence among a greater number of farmers.

Should Plow Now.

Now that we have fine seasons, plows should be active from early morn till late at night turning under vegetable matter which will add much humus to our soil. Whatever our farming plans for the future, the matter of improving soil fertility should not be neglected. Terracing lays the foundation; rotation of crops, saving the barnyard manures, turning under legumes and other green crops will result in a more productive soil. As is the soil, so will be the people.

Leads in Farming.

When we used to be entreated to build sheds for farm implements we advent "poverty," but upon the advent of the automobile we found some way to build a garage. Six years ago we heard a representative of an implement manufacturer say that if the farmers would take care of farm tools for a period of three years, the implement factories would have to shut down for a season. Did you ever see a business with more "leaks" in it than farming? Really, do you think the government is always to blame for our condition?

Produce Leaders.

When the history of old Brazos county is written it will be found that many of the leaders of the great tomorrow came from among the club boys and girls of today.

Eggs Are Scarce.

Eggs are scarce, but those who kept their flocks in condition during the summer are now reaping the reward of high priced eggs. The poultry business, like the dairy business, means "always on the job". If you can't stand it, stay out.

HALF HUNDRED BRYAN FRIENDS COME TO DEFENSE OF A LOCAL MAN BEING TRIED IN HOUSTON

(Houston Post-Dispatch)

People who live in small towns and rural communities are not likely to forget a kindness or desert a friend when he is in trouble.

This fact was illustrated in federal court Tuesday afternoon when Dr. R. J. Hunnicutt of Bryan, who pleaded guilty to a charge of violation of the Harrison narcotic act, came before Judge J. C. Hutcheson for sentence.

George E. B. Peddy, his attorney, asked permission to place character witnesses on the stand. "How many of them have you?" Judge Hutcheson asked him.

Mr. Peddy glanced back and a flurry passed over the crowded court room.

"How many people from Bryan are back there?" Judge Hutcheson asked. "Everybody from Bryan stand up."

Approximately 50 persons stood up. Mr. Peddy explained that the persons who were in the court room made the trip to Houston of their own accord to put in a good word for their physician.

"Physicians and lawyers more than anyone else should obey the law," Judge Hutcheson said. "Right now I feel like sending this defendant to the penitentiary."

But I want to consider his case purely on its merits before passing sentence, and I want to be free from the pressure of the entire community where he lived."

He turned to Mr. Peddy and told him that he did not want any of the people in the court room to talk to him about the case.

"Tell all of them I don't want them to intercede for the defendant," he declared. "I don't want any of them to write to me about the case. All I want are the files and facts. I want to make up my mind purely on the facts."

Dr. Hunnicutt was told to report back to the court alone next Monday for sentence.

As the physician left the court room, his friends left in a body. They gathered in front of the federal building and talked matters over for nearly 30 minutes before they departed.

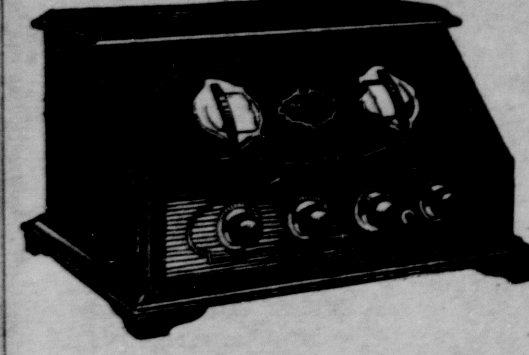

Endeavorers Enjoy Social Meeting At Fr. Baptist Church

A group of interested Christian Endeavorers gathered in the Sunday School room of the Free Baptist church on Thursday night for a business meeting called by the President Miss Lillie Belle Gilpin.

The purpose of the meeting was to make plans for new work to be carried on and review work that had been accomplished. Each committee chairman was ready to report work done and several interesting new features were added to the work for the coming year.

Just before the meeting adjourned two baskets of delicious apples, a tray of cookies and candies were served informally to those present, among whom were: Mr. and Mrs. Remy Gandy, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Cloud, Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Bullard, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Edge, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Holmes, Mrs. Leola Fletcher, Parker Carroll, Rev. C. E. Thompson, Miss Lillie Belle Gilpin, Miss Lena Wooten and Earl Tatum.

Music with RADIOLA 20

Radiola 20 with 3 Radiotrons $115

The music is clear—true—real! It comes in over big distances—makes the evenings lively.

And the weather reports—the news and speeches—are clear. Radiola 20 gets the actual tone—gets it with a single turn of one control. It has a power tube for volume. It has five tubes, drawing small current, but made to do the same work as many more tubes. It runs inexpensively on dry batteries—gets the distant stations dependably—leads the field in performance among sets anywhere near its price!

Let us demonstrate it.

'KATHARINE AND PETRUCHIO' WILL BE PRESENTED BY LITTLE THEATER AT PALACE ON NOV. 2

With the announcement that Mrs. D. S. Buchanan and Joe Woolkett will take the leading roles, there is added interest in the Little Theater production, "Katherine and Petruchio," which will be given at the Palace Theatre November 2.

Can Profit From Play.

This will be the initial play of the Little Theater in Bryan this season, and it augurs well to be both interesting and entertaining. "All married men, as well as bachelors, will profit by the experience of Petruchio. The married men will learn better how to get along with their wives, while the bachelors may get a few hints on successful courtship," stated a prominent member of the club.

The price for this show will be only 50 cents, according to Tom Suber, manager of ticket sales. It is rumored that this is the last play to be presented at this low price.

Setting In Italy.

The play is an exceptionally good done, with many comical situations. The setting of the play is in romantic Italy. The costumes will be especially attractive.

The story goes that Katherine, the beautiful daughter of a wealthy and proud old father, turns down all suitors who have the approval of the father until handsome young Petruchio comes along. He, after an ardent courtship, woo, and wins and weds the winsome Katherine.

Tickets will go on sale in about a week, according to D. L. Wilson, president of the Little Theatre.

FIFTY YEARS OF FINE ACHIEVEMENT

Beginning on yesterday and to continue through today and Sunday, the Semicentennial of the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas is being celebrated at the college, in the presence of the student body, many interested Texas citizens, and a large number of men prominent in educational work from Texas and other states. In connection with this celebration T. O. Walton is to be formally installed as president of the college Saturday.

As is fitting, congratulations are being expressed by thousands of the citizens of Texas upon the completion of fifty years of fine achievement by this, one of the foremost colleges of the United States in its useful field, the oldest institution of higher learning in Texas. The News heartily joins in such congratulations. The institution which publishes this newspaper had been in existence thirty-three years when A. and M. opened its doors to students. On October 1, 1875, one year and three days before the college opened, The News, in a re-statement of its policies, declared that it was committed to the fostering of the development of the material resources of the State, largely in order that there might be a foundation for cultural development. So committee, The News welcomed the founding of A. and M. and it has been pleased to co-operate with it in its great work.

Mr. Morrill, the author of the bill under which the Federal Government made grants of land for the establishment of agricultural and mechanical colleges in the various States, and the members of the Congress who voted for his bill, either were present or they could better than they knew, for it has become increasingly apparent that there is a very near relation between agriculture and mechanics. Beginning at about the time when the Morrill bill became law, the United States had engaged largely in employment of labor-multiplying machinery. One of the results had been greatly to increase agricultural production so that not all the persons living in the farms were needed for farm work. Another consequence was that, with the institution of the factory system, it became unprofitable to conduct manufacturing operations on the farms, and such manufacturing was transferred to towns and cities. For the two reasons indicated, many of the farm folk followed the jobs to the towns. With this change of conditions, education and training in agriculture and mechanics became increasingly desirable and important. There was need to train those who remained on the farm, in order, for one thing, that farming might be conducted more economically, and, also, to train the farm folk in the jobs they were to take in the factories, or in other lines in the towns. That need yet continues, for it is widely realized that, employing labor-multiplying machinery, the persons yet remaining on the farms, in favorable seasons, can and do produce larger crops than can be disposed of probably in the markets. If manufacturing industries and kindred lines can absorb more of the surplus of farm labor, a balance may be struck as between agriculture and industry. With such a balance, farm production will be insured to the point that farming may be stabilized, and it then will be worth while to talk a protective tariff on agricultural products. In the meantime, work of the agricultural and mechanical colleges will be needed to equip those who remain on the farms, and those who leave them, and will continue to be needed for these purposes.

The Smetana school opened today, with five teachers and 175 students. This is a consolidated school, being one of the best in the county. Two motor trucks are operated to take the boys and girls to school.

Germany Resumes Drilling On Vick Oil Well—Test Good

"Drilling will be resumed on the oil well, Vick No. 1, 2 1/2 miles west of Bryan one day this week," stated M. E. Wallace this morning. "I have just had this information from J. A. Germany of Dallas, who is financing the drilling of the well," said Mr. Wallace. A week ago a core of the well was taken and sent to Dallas and upon the findings of the core was to determine whether or this well would be drilled deeper or whether another site would be selected. The decision to go deeper in this well is conclusive evidence that the test was good and is gratifying to those interested in testing out of whether Brazos county has an oil field or not.

A car of oil for fuel has been ordered and just as soon as it arrives, drilling will be resumed.

Fame of Bryan Eggs Known In Distant Africa

The fame of Bryan as a poultry center is recognized even in far away Africa. V. J. Boriskin, owner of the Golden Rule Poultry Farm of Bryan is in receipt of a letter from Wm. O. Smith, from Kenya Colony, British East Africa, making inquiry about chickens.

The letter says: "You see this is a long way out here, and I want my birds from trapnest hens, otherwise I might have the misfortune to get them from the poorest layers. This would be a great calamity not only in shipping—as the freight on a poor bird is equal to that of a good one—but after arriving, it would be a great disappointment."

Methodist Women In Group Meetings

The Woman's Missionary Society of the First Methodist church met Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock in groups as follows: Group No. 1 and 3 met. Groups No. 1 and 3 met Monday afternoon with Mrs. E. J. Jenkins. Mrs. W. E. Neeley read a scripture lesson and Mrs. J. B.

Pains disappeared

"SEVERAL years ago I was badly run-down," says Mrs. John Bunch, R.F.D. 3, Columbia, S. C. "I could not do any of my work. I was so weak I could not wash a dish. My back and sides hurt me at times dreadfully. I dragged around until I finally got down in bed."

Then, she explains, Mrs. Bunch, she happened to read about Cardui, the woman's tonic, and decided to give it a thorough trial, the results of which she describes below:

"It seemed to reach the cause of my trouble at once. I did not take it long before my appetite began to improve. I gained in weight from 114 pounds until now I weigh 125 pounds. I soon was able to be up around the house. I took up my household duties and was delighted with my returning strength."

"I now do all my own work. The pains in my sides and back have disappeared and I feel like a different person."

Tom Padgitt—

the Eclipse, bound for New Orleans. In New Orleans, they took passage on the steamboat Mexico City for Galveston. From that city they proceeded to Houston, where they made their home.

At the age of 13 years, Mr. Padgitt began the task of earning his own livelihood, securing a place with the Tom Bond saddle store in Houston, one of the pioneer establishments of its kind in Texas.

On account of his slight physique, together with the fact that he was too young, his application for enlistment in the Confederate Army was refused. He then entered the Confederate Government saddle shop in Houston, where he was engaged in making saddles and harness for the Southern forces during the Civil War.

In 1854, Mr. Padgitt's father fell a victim to the yellow fever scourge that devastated South Texas, and five years later his mother died, leaving four orphan children, Tom, the oldest; W. C. and J. D. Padgitt and Sarah Padgitt.

Attracted by the extension northward of the Houston & Texas Central Railroad, Mr. Padgitt opened a saddlery store and harness store in Bryan in 1867, at the age of 21 years. Two years later he was joined by his brother, W. C. Padgitt. As the Central continued to advance north, Mr. Padgitt moved to Calvert, leaving his brother in charge of the store the road as it was built to Kosse, in Bryan. Mr. Padgitt followed Groesbeck, and Corsicana. In 1872 he disposed of his interests in Corsicana to another brother, J. D. Padgitt, coming to Waco in that year. Being the oldest boy, he brought his orphaned sister, the youngest of the four children, with him to Waco.

To Mr. Padgitt belonged the rare distinction of being one of the few men in Waco to found a business here more than a half century ago.

His chief pleasure in life was his love for hunting and it was his custom for many years to hunt in the Big Thicket country of Texas annually. He had a varied collection of trophies of the chase, including beaver skin rugs, deer heads and buffalo horns.

In 1870 Mr. Padgitt married Miss Ananda Hutchison and of that union a daughter, Mrs. Buena V. Isham is living in New Jersey. His wife died after several years, and he was married to Miss Kate Ross of Waco, sister of the late Governor L. S. Ross, she being the first white child born in McLennan county. Three of their children are living, Mrs. Katherine Dupree and Clint Padgitt, Waco, and Mrs. Charlotte Rotan, Houston. Mrs. Padgitt died here some years ago and on Oct. 6, 1914, Mr. Padgitt was married to Mrs. Fannie S. Wall, who survives him. Mr. Padgitt is also survived by a brother, J. D. Padgitt, head of the Padgitt Bros. Saddlery Company, Dallas.

Many—

of the Bryan Hatchery will give an article on brooding; D. H. Reid, poultry husbandman of the college will have a splendid article on baby chicks. Dr. Dunn of the College will be asked to contribute a page on diseases. These contributions will be timely for all poultry raisers, thus offering an incentive for the preservation of the catalogue, which will be a sort of perpetual directory for those in search of dependable breeding stock. It is the plan of Manager V. J.

Boriskie to ask nobody for ads, except poultry raisers, or those dealing with poultry supplies, thus making the catalogue purely a poultry announcement. The merchants of Bryan will be offered free space to list special bargains for poultry day, which, if taken advantage of, will help bring 5,000 to 10,000 people to Bryan on that day, not only enabling Bryan merchants to meet new customers, but also affording a wonderful opportunity for the people in nearby counties to see what a great poultry industry we are building in Brazos county.

Watch the Eagle for further announcement about the big show.

Early History—

Battle of Marathon, which occurred 2,400 years ago and broke forever the spell of Persian invincibility, and secured for mankind the intellectual treasures of Athens, the growth of free institutions, the liberal enlightenment of the western world, and the gradual ascendancy for many ages of the great principles of European civilization. Among the other great events were the Battle of Syracuse, the Battle of Tours, the Battle of Hastings, the Battle of Blenheim, the Battle of Pultova, and the Battle of Waterloo. But these great events sink into insignificance in comparison with the importance of the question for debate tonight.

He based his arguments upon three points, that it is better to be thin than fat from three points of view, physically, mentally, and spiritually. He, too, cited many local men in trying to prove his arguments.

Williams Plays Harp.
John Williams, an instructor at Allen Academy, was the recipient of much applause as he played the French harp. He was compelled to play many encores. His playing was the musical feature of the program.

Will Gibbs, a member of the program committee, presided over the meeting, and introduced the speakers with fitting remarks. "Rip" Erskine led the audience in singing peppy songs, with Mrs. J. W. Black at the piano.

Ladies Publicly Thanked.
The hall was attractively decorated with Hallowe'en symbols. Miniature hats were presented to the men, which added to the spirit of levity and gaiety. The menu also was excellent. At the conclusion of the program, the men gave the ladies of Circle No. 4 of the Methodist Missionary Society a rising vote of thanks and appreciation.

The following ladies are members of Circle No. 4, including others who helped in the serving: Mrs. Houston Cole, Mrs. H. N. Cochran, Mrs. J. C. Davidson, Mrs. R. W. Downard, Mrs. Albert Hanneman, Mrs. T. H. Hensarling, Mrs. L. A. Koenig, Mrs. Hugo Lenz, Mrs. Josie Lawrence, Mrs. C. F. Martin, Mrs. Lee Mike, Mrs. B. T. Poole, Mrs. J. H. Webb, Mrs. G. R.
